Colbert Custom Framing has moved to a new location in the Market Meadows shopping plaza at the intersection of Naper Boulevard and 75th Street in Naperville.

Since 1987, the store was at 8 W. Gartner Road in the Naperville Plaza, but owners recently chose to relocate to a larger spot to offer more products and services.

The Colbert family has owned Colbert Custom Framing and Art Printing since 1987 and recently relocated from 8 W. Gartner in Naperville Plaza to 1283 S. Naper Blvd in the Market Meadows Shopping Center of Naperville. Featured (from left) is Kevin, Sue, Micah, Stephen and Stephanie Colbert.

“The new store also houses a 64-inch-wide art printer, which can print on canvas or art paper,” says Kevin Colbert, co-owner of Colbert Custom Framing. “It also has three computers fully equipped with Photo Shop CS5, which customers can use to work on projects they would like printed.”

These computers are available for public use for an hourly fee, and the store also offers design help and technical assistance for those interested in designing Photoshop art.

The Colberts, Kevin and Sue, own the Naperville store and live in Naperville. They run the store with their children.

“Naperville is the best place in the suburbs to do business,” Sue says. “We have had three stores until recently opening this single, larger store and draw customers from as far away as Wheaton, Hinsdale, Geneva, Plainfield, Yorkville, Barrington and beyond.”

The company’s motto, “You’re Going to Love It,” was written by their customers, because so often they say, “I love it!” when they come in to pick up their pieces.

What started as a small custom and do-it-yourself picture framing franchise is now a third-generation, award-winning business.
