ACCOUNTING

Schaumburg CPA firms merge

SCHAUMBURG — Gene Barinholtz, formerly part of Barinholtz & Horwitz, has merged his team and their practice with the certified public accounting firm of Kutchins, Robbins & Diamond Ltd. The merger will create one of the top 35 CPA firms in the area. The combination of firms enhances the capabilities KRD offers its clients, providing an even deeper well of specialized experience to go along with the personalized service each client deserves, he said.

"This seemed like a logical step forward given the fact that we have been collaborating with Barinholtz & Horwitz for the last five years in providing services to a number of their clients," said KRD Partner Allen I. Kutchins.

Barinholtz, 51, is now the partner in charge of the business services unit at KRD, which offers a full range of accounting services to companies that prefer to outsource some or all of their day-to-day accounting and bookkeeping operations. He is a resident of Algonquin and a graduate of Northern Illinois University and was a founding partner of Barinholtz & Horwitz in 1987.
